

VARIO HAIMISH working desk

VARIO HAIMISH is a work table where cosiness and professional working comfort form a perfect symbiosis.

Scandinavian warmth and clarity are reflected in the choice of materials and design language.

The table top is made of an innovative lacquer board that impresses with a super matt surface in black or white and at the same time shows no fingerprints. The chamfered edge of the tabletop is painstakingly lacquered by hand, resulting in a filigree look. In combination with the rounded corners, the table looks homely and modern at the same time. This impression is supported by recessed storage trays made of oak and accessories from a Scandinavian manufacturer that can be attached to the tabletop.

The design as a work table with 4 legs is the basic idea of VARIO HAIMISH. The conical real wood legs (oiled oak) are set at a slight angle, giving the table lightness and emphasising its homely character. The real wood legs are held by filigree leg sleeves in matt black or matt white.

A cable tray below the tabletop keeps everything tidy. The cable tray takes up the bevelled shape of the tabletop, and the cables are routed to the rear edge of the table via the slots in it. From the cable trough to the floor, the cables are routed to one of the table feet, easily fixed with coloured Velcro fasteners.

During the development of VARIO HAIMISH, particular attention was paid to the responsible use of resources and environmentally friendly production. The table can be completely dismantled and thus separated by type. The components used can be replaced if damaged.

Prof. Bernd Benninghoff, the designer of VARIO HAIMISH, explains his approach as follows: "For me, it is basically a matter of using authentic materials in all product developments, achieving the highest possible quality of detail and giving the product an independent character in order to make it as valuable as possible and thus long-lasting."
